Bonny Method of Guided Imagery and Music BMGIM

'The Bonny Method of Guided Imagery and Music (GIM) is an integrative form of music-centred psychotherapy. Specifically programmed music is used to facilitate a dynamic exploration of consciousness and inner experiences in support of physical and psychological transformation and well-being.'

(Definition by the European Association of Music and Imagery)

Level 1 Training

The Level 1 EAMI accredited introductory course, is a five days program that includes basic knowledge about GIM and basic training in Supportive Music and Imagery (MI). Basic individual and group MI training is included as well as GIM experiences.

Anyone interested in music, consciousness and psychotherapy can participate, after approval of the trainer. Please note that it is a course for therapists and not a therapy course.

The training at Level 1 consists of 35 hours of theoretical, practical and experiential tuition, following the standards of and accredited by the European Association for Music and Imagery (EAMI).

Please take into account that you also need about 21 hours for preparation before the course starts.

The training will be facilitated by EAMI accredited Trainer Bolette Daniels Beck (DK) and trainee GIM therapist Barbara Krantz.

Organisation: Nanny Roed Lauridsen, Klankmaat

After having fulfilled Level 1 the participant can carry out:

- Short individual and group Supportive Music and Imagery sessions with clients that the trainee knows from professional work, colleagues and/or other therapists.
- Short workshops / presentations as an introduction for therapists, mental health staff and others with an interest in GIM or related techniques such as imaginative journeys, Music and Imagery etc.

Full training (EAMI standard)

Sounding Circles and Klankmaat offer continuous training in The Netherlands. The Level 1 training is mandatory for entering the full training. Please note that there are specific requirements for entering the full training or the intermediate training, Level 2.

During the Level 1 training these requirements will be addressed. You may also contact Nanny Roed Lauridsen at info@klankmaat.nl for more information.
